It is also seen as a "cooling" and detoxifying herb, removing the heat of conditions that result from excess toxicity. Scientific evidence has revealed that the active constituents, the asiaticosides, accelerate skin healing, relieve inflammation and improve the tone of the circulatory system, especially the veins. The herb is also considered an important tonic for improving longevity and memory power. It is combined with the rain forest herb Ubi Jaga (Smilax myositiflora), one of nature's most potent detoxifiers for acne and chronic skin conditions.
